THIRD GENERAL CHAUTAUQUA CONFERENCE ON U.S.-SOVIET RELATIONS

Executive Registry

87-2630X

UPDATE:

August 23-28, 1987

200 SOVIETS
ANTICIPATED

Chautauqua Institution is moving ahead quickly on plans for the Third General Chautauqua Conference on U.S.-Soviet Relations. More than 200 Soviets will participate, 170 of whom will live in the private homes of Chautauqua residents throughout the week. This housing arrangement will allow for unstructured, citizen-to-citizen diplomacy to occur on a daily basis.

The Conference has the full endorsement of both the U.S. and Soviet governments and will include the participation of noted Soviet and American figures from the arenas of politics, education, and the performing arts. American speakers currently scheduled to participate include Bill Bradley, U.S. senator from New Jersey; Stephen R. Rhinesmith, coordinator, President's U.S.-Soviet Exchange Initiative; Gregory Guroff, deputy coordinator, President's U.S.-Soviet Exchange Initiative; and Marshall D. Shulman, director emeritus, Harriman Institute for Advanced Study of the Soviet Union, Columbia University. More speakers are currently being scheduled.
